Continental was substituted for the Northam, and notice thereof duly given. Several weeks later the Northam resumed running, the Continental being laid off, and was injured in a collision. Plaintiff claimed indemnity for the loss, but the insurance company repudiated liability, and action was brought on the policy to recover insurance. Held, on a close decision, two of the five judges dissenting, that, in the absence of specific notice of the resubstitution of the original steamer the policy still attached to the Continental, and did not reattach to the Northam from the mere fact of her having resumed her place.

Chattels of a Wife—Delivery to Husband and Investment—Insurance Rights of Creditors.—Eggleston v. Slusher et al., 69 N. W. Rep. 310. A wife received moneys from relatives and delivered the same to her husband, who invested them in property in his own name. A portion was destroyed by fire and the insurance policy on it was assigned by the husband to the wife, ostensibly to repay her for a loan of the money; at this time the husband was insolvent. It was not proved that the delivery by the wife to the husband was considered as a loan nor that there was any agreement for its repayment. In a suit against the husband by creditors, held, that the money passed to the husband according to the law when he received it; that the subsequent assignment of the policy lacked consideration, and that the equities of the creditors would prevail over those of the wife.
